Notable Los Angeles-Based Charity Accepts Invitation to Partner &

Accompany Senior White House Officials to Engage Young Americans

LOS ANGELES, CA – March 6, 2012 – In partnership with Millennium Momentum Foundation, Inc. and the U.S. Department of Education, The White House Young America Series are regional conferences that are set to be held across the country this spring. The conferences are designed to connect Obama Administration officials with young community, civic, non-profit and business leaders to discuss issues critical to young Americans and identify solutions to meet the challenges of the 21st century. Millennium Momentum Foundation, Inc., one of the leading charitable providers of leadership development training in the nation, will support this historic initiative given its demonstrated ability to effectively reach, educate, train, and professionally advance young adults.

The non-partisan conferences will establish a space where young leaders can meaningfully engage and interact with officials from the Obama Administration on diverse policy areas that affect their community. In addition, participants will address policy and programmatic areas of importance, while identifying local success stories and practices in policy areas that could benefit other communities across the country. Finally, the conferences will also allow participants to connect with each other and Obama Administration officials to share tools and community solutions that can be leveraged to address larger issues. Millennium Momentum foundation, Inc. will utilize its expertise as a model training program serving young adults to help shape the agenda for each of the targeted regions to ensure that local needs and perspectives are incorporated, lend volunteer support to meet logistical and promotional needs, and will identify and secure resources to support and advance the initiative in each targeted region.

Millennium Momentum Foundation, Inc. (MMF) was formed in 2002 as a 501(c)(3) Nonprofit Public Benefit Corporation with the mission to increase the number of students and young adults in public service fields through higher education, mentoring, and leadership development training. The agency has a compelling track record of equipping young people with the tools they need to secure a quality higher education, find & retain productive work, and reinvest their education and practical skills learned toward advancing their peers and their local communities.

The agency administers two signature programs. MMF's Best & Brightest Scholarship Program awards over $50,000.00 annually in academic scholarship benefits to deserving students that demonstrate financial need, leadership potential, and academic merit. The agency's State-of-the-Art Leadership Development Institute couples the academic education of students from universities and communities, with practical leadership development skills training, along with integrated one-on-one mentoring, higher education guidance, career guidance, and other support services to meet the employment matriculation needs of aspiring leaders (ages 18-24). Millennium Momentum Foundation, Inc. has achieved compelling results in service delivery, including a 96% college graduation rate and an 85% employment matriculation rate among program participants completing service delivery from 2004 thru 2011. Based on its success in the Southern California region and growing demand in markets outside of California, Millennium Momentum Foundation, Inc. is set to expand its service delivery in several key regions nationally to meet the growing demand for its service delivery among young people that simply seek to make giving back their professions through careers in public service.
